

Beat Drugs Fund
Healthy School Programme with a Drug Testing Component
2024/25 School Year
Points-to-Note for Applicants

Schools and organisations preparing to apply for the 2024/25 Healthy School Programme with a Drug Testing Component (HSP(DT)) are advised to read the following points-to-note as references for project planning.

(I) Anti-drug Theme

- According to the figures of the Central Registry of Drug abuse (CRDA)¹, in the first three quarters of 2023, over 40% of the reported drug abusers aged under 21 are students. The most common type of drugs abused among the reported young drug abusers aged under 21 was cocaine (over half of them), followed by cannabis.
- The situation of young people committing drug offences is also worrying. Among the young arrestees aged under 21, nearly 90% were convicted. We must help young people stay away from drugs, strengthen their sensitivity in relevant offences, and remind them that young age is not a valid mitigating factor, so as to prevent them from breaching the law inadvertently.
- Cocaine was the most common type of psychotropic substance taken among drug abusers, overtaking “Ice” (crystal meth) for the first time in 10 years. In fact, according to reports published by the United Nations Office on Drugs and Crime in 2022 and 2023, coca cultivation had surged in recent years, and there is also an expansion of the cocaine market into non-traditional markets.
- Drug dealers often tout cocaine as a symbol of being posh and trendy, or for successful professionals. However, cocaine is highly addictive and will do countless harm (e.g. causing unbearable itchiness, nasal damage, delirium, and even death). We must impress upon young people that “no drug is noble or humble as they are all illegal, and will ruin people's bodies and minds”.
- Drug dealers are eyeing on the increasing popularity of dating apps and online shopping, and making use of them to tempt young people to try drugs or to join related activities.
- With reference to the above latest drug situation, schools and organisations should incorporate the following themes when designing their activities :
 - ✧ The harms of abusing cocaine and cannabis;
 - ✧ Serious consequences of committing drug offences, in particular young age is not a valid mitigating factor;
 - ✧ The importance of refusing drugs and involvement in drug offences as well as refusal skills both online and offline.

(II) Programme Design

- HSP(DT) is a school-based programme comprising diversified anti-drug programmes. To encourage schools and organisations to make good use of the free anti-drug education resources provided by the Government for enriching the project contents, schools and organisations must implement the following two types of activities :
 - ✧ Arranging students to visit the Hong Kong Jockey Club Drug InfoCentre² located in Admiralty (at least once in a school year); and
 - ✧ Showing anti-drug cartoons, video clips or short films³ on school campus (at least twice in a school year).
- Apart from students' participation, home-school co-operation is also crucial. Schools and families both have powerful impacts to the personal growth of young people. Parents and teachers are often the first line of defence against drug problem amongst youth. Hence, schools and organisations participating in HSP(DT) should organise activities and trainings to school personnel and parents to enrich their anti-drug knowledge. In particular, there is a need to help them support students to stay away from drugs and provide suitable assistance to students who encounters drug problems when necessary, as well as to cultivate a healthy and drug-free environment for students.

Recommended activities

- ✧ Arranging parent-child anti-drug activities (e.g. workshops, visits, etc.);
 - ✧ Organising parental anti-drug talks/workshops; and
 - ✧ Organising anti-drug training courses for teachers by schools or arranging teachers to attend relevant training courses
- The Narcotics Division (ND) launched a brand-new anti-drug publicity to rally community support for combating drug abuse. This includes a pair of anti-drug ambassadors “Agent Don’t” and “Agent Hope”, an anti-drug logo with the slogan “Let’s Stand Firm. Knock Drugs Out!”⁴. We strongly encourage schools and organisations to incorporate the above elements when designing the project.
 - Schools may incorporate the diversified school programmes into the existing school curriculum or other school activities, including incorporating the HSP(DT) activities into the overall time allocation of “Other Learning Experiences” for a more comprehensive and flexible school plan.

(III) School Drug Testing

- School Drug Test can help strengthen students' resolve to stay away from drugs, build an anti-drug culture in schools and enhance motivation of those in need to seek help.

- The personal data and testing results of any individual student obtained under HSP(DT) will not be passed to Police and other law enforcement agencies.
- Student who has been tested positive or who admitted drug abuse pursuant to HSP(DT) will neither be prosecuted for drug consumption nor expelled from school.
- Schools and organisations should strengthen the promotion of the school drug testing component of HSP(DT) to parents/guardians, students and other relevant parties through different means, so as to encourage students' participation in the drug testing.
- When planning the school drug testing, schools and organisations should refer to the “Reference Protocol for School Drug Testing” available on the HDP(DT) website⁵.
